The origins of Mahidol University date back over 120 years to the creation of a medical school at Thailand's first hospital (Siriraj Hospital). Following many years of expansion, the school became the University of Medical Sciences in 1943. It was then renamed with great honor by H.M. King Bhumibol Adulyadej in 1969 after his father H.R.H. Prince Mahidol of Songkla (who is widely regarded as the 'Father of Modern Medicine and Public Health in Thailand').

Today, Mahidol University is a comprehensive research and multi-disciplinary institution, with 4 University Hospitals, 17 Faculties, 6 Colleges and 8 Institutes. The university has 6 campuses nationwide, three of which are located in and around Bangkok. These are joined by campuses in Kanchanaburi, Nakhon Sawan and Amnraj Charoen, in the west, central-north and north-east of Thailand respectively.

From tackling today's medical, social, and environmental concerns to addressing the priorities of tomorrow, research at Mahidol University aims to develop innovative solutions to Thailand's and the world's most important challenges. Crucial to this approach is the belief that research should not merely be geared towards publication, but engage directly with real-world problems.

Being internationally recognized for the quality of its research, health-care services, innovation, and outstanding achievements, the University is consistently ranked as one of the top universities in Thailand by international ranking systems (including the US News, QS and Times Higher Education Rankings).

National Institute for Child and Family Development

ATTRACTIONS

If there is one must-see sight that no visit to Bangkok would be complete without, it's the dazzling, spectacular Grand Palace, undoubtedly the city's most famous landmark. Built in 1782 - and for 150 years the home of the Thai King, the Royal court and the administrative seat of government - the Grand Palace of Bangkok is a grand old dame indeed, that continues to have visitors in awe with its beautiful architecture and intricate detail, all of which is a proud salute to the creativity and craftsmanship of Thai people. Within its walls were also the Thai war ministry, state departments, and even the mint. Today, the complex remains the spiritual heart of the Thai Kingdom.

Bangkok at night, especially along the city's spectacular Chao Praya River, is a wonder to behold. For proof of this, look no further than one of many available Dinner Cruises. While you wine and dine in luxurious surroundings, you'll get a true taste of just how much this city dazzles at night.

Shimmering temples, glistening skyscrapers and a rich stream of passing nocturnal traffic will greet you from every direction. As you lap up the first-class hospitality and delicious Thai food on board your converted rice barge or luxury cruiser, you'll get a true sense of what makes the 'River of Kings' such an evocative spot. Rounding off the experience will be a cool, tropical breeze and romantic candlelit ambiance, making this a simply unforgettable occasion.

Asiatique has successfully combined two of the most popular shopping experiences in the city: a night bazaar and a mall. Ten minutes downriver from Saphan Taksin BTS station this once-bustling international trade port has been transformed, with over 1,500 boutiques and 40 restaurants housed under a huge replica warehouse complex. Open from 17:00, spending an evening here is no problem: you'll have good fun browsing the boutiques, picking up gifts or something for yourself; you are guaranteed to find something you would like to eat and if this isn't enough entertainment, shows are performed nightly: Calypso ladyboy cabaret and soon, a classic Thai puppets performance.

There is a shuttle boat from Montien riverside hotel offered for hotel guests

One of the most picturesque festivals in Bangkok is the evening of Loy Krathong, when people gather around lakes, rivers and canals to pay respects to the goddess of water by releasing beautiful lotus shaped rafts, decorated with candles, incense and flowers onto the water.

Every year, Loy Krathong falls on the night of the twelfth lunar month (usually in November), at the end of the rainy season when the full-moon lights up the sky.

This year, this festival will be held during our conference, November 25, 2015. We would like to welcome you to join us the Gala Dinner and enjoy the festival. Lights from hundreds of candles twinkle on the water. Each one carries prayers and wishes sent off to float down rivers and streams. Celebrate Loy Krathong with us to create lasting memories of your wonderful trip to Thailand.
